

If you want to be inspired by what may prove to be the next generation of occupational safety and health professionals, please come to the Occupational Health Internship Program (OHIP) Student Presentation session on Tuesday, November 9 at 2:30pm!

Following the Annual OSH Awards Luncheon, 2010 OHIP students will present their summer projects that address specific health and safety concerns raised by workers employed in an underserved or high hazard job.

A panel of six OHIP students will be presenting the following five projects:

1. Heat Illness and Chemical Exposure in the Carwash Industry of Los Angeles, CA
Annie Fehrenbracher, MPH Candidate in the Department of Health Sciences at the University of California, Los Angeles and Maria Rangel, B.A. in Anthropology at the University of California, Los Angeles.
2. Ergonomic Risks for Airport Baggage Handlers at South West Airways in Oakland and at LaGuardia Airports
Wesley Tang, MPH Candidate at Drexel University.
3. Shoulder and Back Injuries of Pavement Breakers
Diana Flores, MPH Candidate at the University of California, Los Angeles.
4. Occupational Hazards of Waste and Recycling Workers
Catherine Clarke, MPH in Environmental and Occupational Health at Loma Linda University.
5. Occupational and Environmental Health Hazards of Oil Refineries in Southern CA
Christopher Ng, MPH Candidate in Environmental Health Sciences at the University of California, Los Angeles.

2010 OHIP Interns and Staff

We hope you will join us and hear how students are improving the work environment.