How members of Congress supported public health
APHA annual congressional record

As part of the APHA's continuing effort to inform its members on the nation's public health policies, the Association annually publishes a record of how members of Congress voted on legislation included in its records. Second, the records do not demonstrate the number of responsible legislative proposals a legislator introduces; leadership in committees, where much important work is done; not in Congress the preceding year, and is not included in the member's percentage for 2013. "P" signifies that a member did not vote in that roll call, and is not included in the member's percentage for 2013. "P" represents a member who voted "present" and is not used in...

Face-to-face meeting tips

• Arrive on time. If meeting with a staff member, be sure you have the correct contact name. Do not underestimate the power of the staff person in helping to shape the policy-maker’s opinions and positions on issues or a particular piece of legislation.

• Bring two or three colleagues with you. Prior to the meeting, you should agree on what points will be made and which one each of you will discuss.

• Try to deliver your message in three minutes. Be sure to introduce yourself and your colleagues and explain why you are concerned about the issue and why you have expertise regarding the issue. Be concise, polite and professional.
Face-to-face meeting tips

• Be prepared to answer questions. When asked what you want, clearly explain

• Be a resource for the policymaker and his/her staff. Offer your time and assistance if he/she wants to talk about your areas of interest and expertise in the future

• Provide material to support your position. Leave behind a business card and a one-page fact sheet summarizing your position

• Follow up with a thank you email. Be sure to include any additional information you may have promised or that may be relevant to the issue
