APHA Healthy Meeting Guidelines: Physical Activity

The American Public Health Association is one of many organizations that have signed onto the Healthy Meetings Pledge to formalize its commitment to offering healthy options and promoting physical activity and sustainability at our meetings and events. Below are suggestions for incorporating physical activity into your events.

- Have participants to stand up when they’re sharing an opinion/idea
- Encourage participants to stretch or get up and walk around during meetings
- Explicitly include a stretch/movement break in your agenda
- Do a 10-minute Instant Recess activity video during a break
- Provide a ten minute stretch break once per 1.5 hour – Assign a staff person or ask members to rotate leading the stretching. Provide a copy of the stretching handout to meeting attendees.
- Play music for popular group dance song and let the group dance (a few ideas):
  - Macarena
  - The Twist
  - Electric Slide
  - YMCA
  - Twist and Shout
  - The Cupid Shuffle
  - The Wobble
- Play a game like Simon Says: One person designated as “Simon” calls out different active commands to get participants moving (hop on one foot, touch your toes, etc.)
