

Claire Beck
World Vision International
Director – Global Technical Team

Claire is a public health specialist with nutrition, health promotion and health program management experience. She has been working in World Vision in a number of roles for the last 15 years. Most of her work has been with Humanitarian and Emergency Affairs (HEA) and included field and remote management of emergency and recovery programs in Africa, Asia, Middle East and the Pacific, and has been deployed as program manager or health and nutrition manager to responses in Solomon Islands, Zambia, Lesotho, Democratic Republic of Congo, Pakistan, Haiti, Niger, Northern Syria and Nepal. Also as operations manager in the Kurdish Region of Iraq (KRI)

While not deployed Claire works on policy, strategy, tools and training for regional and national offices in relation to emergency health and nutrition. She is also WV's representative on the Global Health Cluster.

In her role as director she provides strategic oversight of technical specialists in the areas of health, nutrition, MHPSS, WASH, food and cash programming, humanitarian protection including child protection, and education in emergencies.

Prior to joining World Vision Claire worked in Pakistan for 12 years. She was involved with school and hostel management and staff capacity building.

Claire is based in Melbourne Australia.
